Domain 3A: Communicating with Students

Below is a whiteboard drawing I did with students to take notes on our reading book for the week.

Reflection: This activity is part of a far larger one in which we will be learning about venn diagrams. I wanted them to see what 'note taking' looks like from a book as that is something they tend to struggle with. I called on them as they went and then after I filled up the space on the whiteboard, I had them turn and talk about anything we may have missed.
